

Sanctuary

The very heart that I carry
Is an open sanctuary
A dwelling place for my Lord
To fill me up even more
Hide within the chambers of my heart
Dwell in each and every part
Fill me up, even when I overflow
Give me the abundance, the utterance
So that your glory will show
And your anointing will flow
From me
My heart is your sanctuary
So come dwell in me
My heart has become the very essence
Of your overwhelming presence
I've come before you
In an empty room
On my knees, I fell
In the place that you dwell
You're sanctuary, you're home
God's House and God alone
Because you're inside of me
I can worship you in your sanctuary
Where your presence embraces me
Throughout time you prepared me
To be your sanctuary
